Before deciding on your next tire have your dealer show you cross-sections of the various makes you are considering—so that you can measure the total thickness of the rubber and fabric used in building up the various makes.

You will find that Michelin Tires embody more of these mileage-giving materials. In the 34x4 Michelin Universal, for example, there is a solid though flexible mass of wear-resisting rubber and fabric almost an inch thick.

Every bit of the materials used is of the highest quality. Yet Michelins are moderate in price.

HEALTH EDUCATION

I have just returned from attending teachers' institutes in nine counties where I made talks on public health. Dr. Henshaw, State Health Comissioner, and others representing the State Department of Health have been busy attending other institutes and doing the same thing. The attitude of those with whom we came in contact, which includes almost every school man and woman in the state from the State University to the smallest district school, convinces us that there is a place in the common schools for health education.

The Dentists of the State have loyally helped in this brief campaign, and I believe that a foundation has been laid for the actual teaching of practical sanitary measures and disease prevention in our schools. County Superintendents, Boards of Education and teachers themselves have assured us of this and only await the proper encouragement and help from those who are better prepared to direct it.

This help will be gratefully furnished by the State Department of Health, but can only be partially successful without the support and coopperation of all physicians and health officers. If your school happen to be among the very few that have sanitary inspection, it is your duty to observe imperfections and suggest remedies. If there is no one whose specific duty it is to look after these matters, we hope that you will consider it your duty to do so, and not only suggest and secure proper sanitation of the school house and grounds, but use your influence as a physician to stimulate the teaching of these things inside the school itself.

Many of the best and busiest physicians of the state have already promised this cooperation, I therefore have no hesitancy in asking all of you to do the same. The next decade is certainly going to be one of radical changes in health education and in disease prevention. Are you going to be on the band wagon or stand on the ourb?—F. F. Farnsworth, P. A. STOPHOR GIVIEN LIFE SENTENCE INSTEAD OF DEATH

(Charleston Gazette)

James Stophor, under sentence to be hanged Thursday at the Moundsville penitentiary for complicity in the murder of two foreigners in Pocahontas county, yesterday was granted a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment by Governor E. P. Morgan.

The executive order issued by the governor in this case is the first of its kind since he entered office last March

Stophor was convicted of murder in the first degree at Marlinton and the jury returned the verdict without recommendation. He was sentenced to be hanged by the trial judge, Andrew Price.

Intervention by Governor Morgan was a result of efforts on the part of the condemned man and recommendations by a majority of the jurymen and the trial judge. The prosecuting attorney, A. P. Edgar, notified the governor that he wonld not resist the man's effort to save his life, "in view of all circumstances in this case.

Stoplor and a companion held up and robbed a lumber camp near Marlinton and killed two men. His companion was sentenced to life imprisonment and shortly after he entered the Moundsville prison he died of a self-imposed hunger strike, in protest against the conviction.

The executive order issued by Governor Morgan is as follows:

"Whereas, James Stophor, convicted of murder in the first degree, and without recommendation in the circuit court of Pocahontas county, at the June term thereof, 1921, and sentenced by said court to be hanged on the 16th day of September, 1921, and

"Whereas, the date of the execution of the said James Stopher was fixed and set for Friday, September 16, 1921: and

"Whereas said James Stophor on August 30. 1921, filed the petition praying for commutation of his original sentence and upon the presentation to me of the statements of a majority of the jurymen who sat upon the trial of the case of the state of West Virginia against James Stopher, and who recommended said commutation to life imprisonment and upon recommendation of Andrew Price, the trial Judge, that said sentence be commuted and upon the statement of A. P. Edgar, prosecuting attorney of Pocahontas county, "that in view of all the circumscances in this case I do not feel I should resist this man's effort to save his life."

"Now, therefore, I, Ephriam F. Morgan, governor of the state of West Virginia, with the authority duly conferred upon me as such governor, duly considering the statements of said jurymen, trial judge and prosecuting attorney, and as an act of mercy, do hereby direct and order that the said prisoner, James Stophor, instead of being executed on Friday, September 16th, 1921, and in accordance with the sentence of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, aforesaid, shall be confined in the penitentiary of the state of West Virginia for and during his natural life.

"And I do hereby direct and order the warden of the penitentiary upon receipt of this executive order to enter the name of the said James Stophor as a life prisoner upon the records of the penitentiary, and I do hereby further order and direct that this commutation of sentence to life imprisonment be observed by the warden of the penitentiary and his successors in office the same as though it were the original sentence of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia."
